An explosion of gas in a basement room under the saloon of Carl Goerwitz, 194 Third avenue, corner of Seventeenth street, between 2 and 3 o'clock yesterday morning, injured four men, one of whom will probably die. There were two subsequent explosions at 8 o'clock and 9% o'clock, by each of which a man was elightly burned.

The room in which the explosions occurred is beneath the sidewalk in front of the Seven-teenth street entrance. It is about twelve feet quare, and is used by the waiters as a dressing room. Next to this room is a bowling alley. A party of twenty-six players had left the alley e minutes before the first explosion. The waiters' room and the bowling alley are under the wing of the saloon which runs parallel with Third avenue, and which is regularly crowded with men and women up to a late hour. At the time of the first explosion the place was about to close, and six waiters had gone to the basement room to exchange their jackets and s for their street clothing. August Kreter ment room to exchange their jackets and aprons for their street clothing. Angust Kreter of 249 East Seventy-seventh street led the way. He had a lighted eigar in his mouth, and as soon as he opened the door of the room he was stunned and severely burned by an explosion of the gas with which the room was partly filled. Ernst Otto, 22 years old, of 347 East Sixty-fifth street, who was next behind Kreter, was badly burned about the face and hands. Lewis Hamburg of 301 East Seventieth street and Louis Pfaus of 127 Sheriff street were slightly burned about the face and hands. An ambulance call was sent out for Kreter, and the others were taken to their homes. It was more than an hour before the ambulance came, Kreter suffering intensely all the while. Yeaterday it was thought that he could not recover. His head and face, both much swellen, were covered with bandages. The loopholes for his eyes were of no service, for he could not unclose the raw and swellen lids. When asked how he felt he said. 'I am freezing.'

About 8 o'clock, when the day force came on, a waiter named G. Wagner, thinking there was no danger of a second explosion, entered the basement room with a lighted match. An explosion followed, which singed his hair and moustache and slightly burned his face.

The proprietor had great difficulty in finding gasinen to examine the room, but one came at 9:30 o'clock, and the experience of Wagner was repeated. The gasman was not seriously hurt. Subsequently several gas fitters were obtained, and after investigating the cause of the explosion they reported that it was due to a leak in one of the two supply pipes. There is a meritor in a little closet which opens into the room, but it was found to be in good condition. Goldweit and his assistants thought yesterday that there was some mysterious cause for the explosion, as they believed there was a gas jet burning in the room all night.

BUSY DAYS IN THE POST OFFICE Nearly 1,000 Sacks of Mail Received from Europe in Two Days.

Sunday and Saturday were heavy foreign muil days in the Post Office. A steamer from Queenstown generally brings not more than 400 or 500 sacks of letters and papers, but the ermanic on Saturday brought 740 sacks, and besides that there were five other vessels from various foreign ports which brought mail matter amounting altogether to 1,085 bags. Each bag will average 100 pounds of letters. Yesterday the Etruria brought 780 bags from London and the Bretagne 130 from Havre. This makes the total for the two days 1,895 sacks of foreign mail. This, together with the domestic and be distributed to the carriers for delivery this morning.

The cause of these large foreign mails is found partly in the holiday remembrances from abroad, and partly in the fact that business between England and the United States at this season is especially active. The first big batch of holiday mail from the old country was received on Sunday a week ago, when the Britannie brought 975 bags. This was ready for delivery on the Monday after Christmas, and was the largest single delivery of foreign mail ever received in the United States.

Postmaster Pearson received yesterday the verification receipts from the London Post Office of the money orders sent from this country in the two weeks before Christmas. There were 18,000 separate remittances, Most of them were intended for presents to the old folks at home.

Shot the Big Boy Who Tensed Him. Little Gustav Schumann, of 18 Division street, aged 11, cried bitterly when arraigned before Justice Patterson yesterday on the 15, of 4 East Broadway, with a toy pistol. Offi-15, of 4 East Broadway, with a toy pistol. Officor Young of the Children's Society investigated the case, and whon he asked Gustav how he came to do it the boy said:
"He was all the time tensing me and hitting me. He's bigger than I am; so I had a grudge against him and I shot him."
Gustav shot with a toy pistol and inflicted a sorious wound on Budolph's knee. Gustav was paroled into the care of the society.

How Sweetly I Slept Last Night.

So writes a lady, speaking of her rapid recovery from chronic nervous weakness and prostration. She had enjoyed her first sound and refreshing night's sleep in not agree with them; they have a sour stomach and a sense of heaviness after eating, headache, diszinces, foul breath, often tumble and toes on their beds at night, and when they do sleep are vexed with bad dreams. They are often restless and fldgety, take gloomy views of life, and are annoyed by a wandering mind and fall-ing memory. They have a feeling of being tired, especially on rising in the morning.

Mrs. J. C. Scarborough of Seima, N. O., wife of exSuperintendent of Public Schools of that State, suffered from excessive nervous depression, exhaustion, and neuralgia, from malaria. Kaskine, the new quinine, rapidly cured her. She says: "I can now go to sleep in my chair."

Kaskine cures every form of nervous disease by cleanating vitalising, and disinfecting the blood. It also imparts tone and strength to the digestive functions. This creates appetite. Appetite insures a food supply. This in turn strengthens the whole nervous system. What must follow? We will tell you:

SOUND AND RESTFUL SLEEP.

Kaskine contains no optum—no narcotic principle whatever. It does not drown pain—it expels pain. It removes the poison from the blood. It destroys all dis-ease germs. Health is the result, like fruit on a tree. Kaskine is pleasant to take, and can be used without special medical counsel.
